RFP FOR CONTINUED MAINTENANCE OF SIUT DATA CENTER UPS AND CRAC UNITS

DESCRIPTION

1. SIUT has an established DC on the First Floor of the Hanifa Suleman Dawood Building (HSD), which has been operational for the last 5 years.
2. The area comprising the new data center measures 13.8 M by (6.36 to 7) M. The room is slightly oblong in shape. In feet, the measurements are 45.26 ft by (20.8 to 22.9 ft., averaging 22 ft. in width).
3. The area of the data center comes to approximately 990 square feet.
4. The data center does not have a raised floor.
5. The DC is planned to be a 20-rack facility, with 2 rows of racks, presently populated with 8 racks in the first row.
6. There are Two load sharing UPS (with 3 phase in/ 3-phase out power), model Liebert ExM, sized at 100 KVA each.
7. The UPS has a common battery bank of 1,120 Ampere-Hours capacity with sealed gel-acid batteries.
8. Three Precision Cooling CRAC units, make Emerson PEX+R407C, P1050DA13C of 53KW cooling capacity each are placed along one side of the DC. These are down-flow cold air discharge types, bolted on raised custom built racks. The CRACs are 3-phase powered.
9. The precision cooling units also control humidity, with water feed into each unit.
10. The clear air discharge height of the raised metal stands is 16 inches.
11. The metal stands have adjustable vanes to guide the cold airflow out horizontally forward and then sideways to an extent. These vanes help aim the cold air stream towards the IT equipment racks.
12. The CRACs are DX types with externally mounted condenser units, which are located below the DC at almost the same height and are placed on raised metal walkways just above the ground floor of the HSD Building.
13. The CRACs each have one water sensor placed on the floor to alarm against any water leaks from the humidifier.
14. The incoming 3 phase electrical raw power (220 Volts/phase voltage) are distributed from a power panel with three phase distributions for powering the twin UPS and triple CRACs.
15. The load shared UPS output from the PDU powers the computing equipment racks and the NOC only.
16. The Power distribution to the racks has been carried out using purpose built overhead power cable trays.
17. All overhead metal cable trays have been grounded to the building power ground via the raw power distribution panel.
18. Power supplied by a phase into a rack is via a locking type of computer power connector of 30 Amp rated load capacity; power, neutral, ground wire size AWG10, Hubbell model plug HBL2621 and matching socket L6-30R. Two phases into a rack means 2 such connecting circuits into each rack with their individual and separate supply circuit breakers, providing power to equipment like servers having twin power supplies requiring connections to two different circuit breakers.
19. Power distribution inside a rack is via power strips securely mounted to the rack, getting their power from smaller distribution strips (if required due to the number of sockets available for equipment connections) directly connected to each Hubbell type power connector in the overhead trays.
20. The power cable tray is placed on the outside and adjacent to the data tray. This way each rack has enough tray capacity available for any projected future cabling expansion. Cable tray interconnection ladders are provided every 4 feet between the cable trays to allow cables to traverse from one row to the other. Cable trays are painted to identify the power cable trays and identify them from the data cable trays. The cable trays are assembled from metal pipe sections, with gaps to allow cables to ascend and descend to/from racks below.

21. Fire detection sensors and circuits have been laid out in a matrix (of at least 8 in total) above each item such as UPSs, CRACs and IT equipment racks to locally alert the NOC in case of a fire. These sensors also connect the DC to the BMS fire alarms in SIUT.
22. There is a Novec 1230 based fire suppression system installed in the DC.
23. There is a particulate filter installed in the DC with MERV 1 & 3 filters.
24. All racks have been grounded to the building power ground.
25. All racks have been securely bolted to the floor to provide seismic resistance.

BASIS OF SUPPLY AND SUPPORT BY VENDORS QUOTING ON THIS RFP

1. The existing CRAC Equipment Model will be fully supported, with parts and labor for 3 years. This support will include gassing up with coolant gas whenever required.
2. The UPS Equipment Model will be fully supported with parts and labor for 3 years. This includes any replacement batteries that run down in the common battery bank.
3. Quoting vendors must quote an annual support price, with reasonably small increments (suggested increase to be 5% after each of the first and second years). Quotes for all the 3years must accompany the RFP financial response.
4. Parts for CRAC and UPS may be sourced from either the manufacturer or equivalent quality parts from third party suppliers. SIUT will not be billed extra for parts during the span of this contract.
5. Delivery and handling of all equipment and its movement into the site will be the supplier's responsibility and at their expense.
6. Installation and testing will be the supplier's responsibility for all systems and sub-systems.

SCOPE OF WORK

1. Quoting vendors must be on call for 8 working hours/6 days of the week.
2. Each call must be logged when reported.
3. Vendor response SLA will be 2 hours on the same day, or at most NBD; while fixup SLA will be 4 hours after arrival of service personnel at SIUT.
4. The call must be acknowledged and answered either on the same working day or at the latest by the start of work on the NBD.
5. All works by the successful vendor to be executed to the best professional standards of materials and workmanship and to the entire satisfaction of SIUT personnel and consultant(s).
